

ANNUAL REPORT 2007

The American Council for Construction Education (ACCE) is a 501(c)(3) private non-profit corporation. The mission of ACCE is to be a leading global advocate of quality construction education; and to promote, support, and accredit quality construction education programs. The primary goal is promotion and continued improvement of postsecondary construction education; specifically, ACCE accredits construction education programs in colleges and universities that request its evaluation and meet its standards and criteria.

ACCE is recognized by the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA) as the accrediting agency for both 4-year baccalaureate degree programs and two-year associate degree programs in construction, construction science, construction management, and construction technology.

Organized in 1974 by the American Institute of Constructors, the constructor's professional organization, and the Associated Schools of Construction, ACCE enjoys the support of the principal building and contracting national associations and academic institutions seeking to satisfy the needs for well educated and trained entrants into the construction profession.

By working together under the aegis of ACCE, persons representative of the total construction community and the public at large, construction educators and constructors, establish and maintain standards and criteria for accreditation, provide guidance to those seeking to achieve accredited status, and carry out the accreditation and reaccreditation processes. In doing so, ACCE serves the interests of potential students by helping them identify institutions and programs that offer quality education in the field, and serves the interests of the industry by enabling employers to identify persons who, by reason of their education and training, have the potential for making lasting contributions to the industry and their profession. ACCE also serves the interests of owners/users of constructed facilities and the public at large by raising the professional caliber of constructors and thus the quality of the construction for which they assume responsibility.

ACCE has developed reciprocal agreements with the Chartered Institute of Building (CIOB) of the United Kingdom, the National Board for Construction Management Accreditation (NBCMA) of the People's Republic of China, and the Canadian Technological Accreditation Board (CTAB). The agreements recognize university degree programs accredited by CIOB, NBCMA, and CTAB as equivalent to Baccalaureate Degree Programs or Associate Degree Programs accredited by ACCE and the same equivalency for CIOB, NBCMA, and CTAB accredited Degree Programs.

These agreements are the culmination of a long period of evaluation by all parties embracing academic standards' comparability, exchange of procedural information and reciprocal observation of accreditation visits.

Greetings, and welcome to the 2007 Annual Report for the American Council for Construction Education. Our Council continues to be a leading global advocate in promotion of quality construction education programs. Because of the great work you have done, we have enjoyed an excellent year in many ways, and this report will recount some of our activities and accomplishments.

We have said in our Mission Statement that we are "to be a leading global advocate of quality construction education programs ... ." We have continued our activities with a global component in our Council, by the completion in 2007 of a reciprocal agreement with the Canadian Technology Accreditation Board. This division of the Canadian Council of Technicians and Technologists acknowledges the construction management degrees from ACCE-accredited programs, and we do the same, in reciprocal fashion, for their programs.

We have completed the second year award of the Regnier Traveling Fellowship for Construction Science, and are now evaluating the applications for our third year award. This program provides the recipient, specified to be a recent graduate of an ACCE-accredited program, with a $20,000 grant to support the opportunity to travel and study in a post-graduate environment with a self-directed study plan. The recipient is to report on progress, and is to complete his or her studies, and is then to provide a final report. What a tremendous opportunity for that student who sees a broader perspective to our world in construction! We are excited to have this opportunity supported by the Regnier Family Foundation.

In working with the National Housing Endowment (NHE) and its H.E.L.P. initiative, we have assisted several of our programs in receiving grants of up to $100,000 each. The stated purpose of these grants is to increase the awareness of the residential industry as a career opportunity for our graduates. This program from NHE is to be an annual opportunity for those accredited programs which can work with NHE to provide more graduates to the residential industry.

ACCE awarded its first annual Founder's Award to Mr. Joe Kimmel. Mr. Kimmel has provided great support to students and programs focused on construction management, through his financial support for scholarships across the country; in funding a School for Construction at Western Carolina University; and in establishing Building Future Builders, a non-profit organization focused on providing and enhancing opportunities for future generations of construction professionals. Mr. Frank Bruckner accepted the award for Joe Kimmel at our Annual Meeting in Salt Lake City.

The Dupree Education Fund Committee, supported by a vote of our Board of Trustees, initiated a process to award scholarship(s) to industry practitioners who wish to obtain an advanced degree in a construction management program, and then to become a faculty member of an ACCE-accredited program. The first application request is to be announced in the spring 2008, for award of a $5,000 scholarship to up to three people who fit this criterion. This is an important effort by ACCE to help develop additional faculty for our programs. The need is great across the country for qualified faculty, and that need is becoming a crisis for many of our programs.

In furtherance of our collaborative work, we met with the National Architectural Accrediting Board (NAAB) at their annual meeting, regarding the potential for mutually beneficial opportunities. We have also spoken with the staff of the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology (ABET). The objective is to begin discussions about collaboration between our Councils, leading our professions in their need for collaboration with educational collaboration across our disciplines.

We held our Midyear meeting in Charleston, SC during February, 2007. Our Annual Meeting was conducted in Salt Lake City in July, 2007.

During our fiscal year, we had three Initial Accreditations, and we wish to warmly welcome Edmonds Community College, State Fair Community College, and the University of Southern Australia to our Council as newly accredited programs. Additionally, we processed eleven Re-accreditation actions, and reviewed and voted upon some thirty Progress Reports from our programs. We also welcomed five programs into Candidate Status.

We have continued to move forward with our consideration and development of graduate program accreditation. We conducted two pilot visits this year, to the graduate programs at Clemson University and the University of Washington. These reviews of the graduate programs were conducted in parallel with the reaccreditation visits already scheduled to these two programs.

We continue to see interest from programs outside our Council, who wish to become part of the quality Construction Management and Construction Science programs which have been recognized by their peers as meeting the standards and quality expectations required for accreditation. With your help, we look forward to another year of accomplishment in 2008.

Respectfully submitted,

Robert Segner, Jr.
President
2007-2009

ACCREDITED

There are sixty-one baccalaureate degree programs and eleven associate degree programs that are ACCE accredited in accordance with the standards and procedures. Shown are the parent institution, the program accredited, and the responsible faculty member. Standards and procedures by which these programs are evaluated for accreditation are found on the ACCE web site at www.acce-hq.org

CANDIDATES

There are eight baccalaureate degree and three associate degree candidate programs. The institutions where these programs are offered have all indicated their desire to work toward ACCE accreditation. However, these programs, although in various stages of the accreditation process, have not yet been evaluated for compliance with ACCE's standards and criteria. Shown are the parent institution, the construction program, and the responsible faculty member.
